Electronic Claims Submission Alert

A vital part of transmitting electronic claims is verifying that Medicare and/or Proxymed received your claims submission and more importantly are actually processing all your claims.

There are several reasons why your transmission may not have been successfully received or may not be processed. A current factor may be the October 16, 2003 HIPAA deadline which requires that all electronic claims be submitted in the ANSI 4010 format. As the deadline approaches, Medicare and Proxymed continue to make changes to their systems to accommodate this new format. As a result some claims are being rejected and even deleted as changes are made and standards are tightened.

Regardless of what caused the error, there are several steps that can be taken to verify that your transmission has been successfully transmitted and is being processed.

For your Medicare electronic claims it is important to check the Transmission Log for a transmission confirmation number, the (ACK) Acknowledgment Report for a transmission confirmation number and claim count, and the (ESR) Error Summary Report for claim level detail as to which claims are being denied. The ACK should be received immediately after your transmission is sent, the ESR should be received within seven days of the transmission being sent and may contain multiple transmissions if they were sent within this period. To access this information press [6] Insurance Billing/EDI from the home screen, [2] Medicare Electronic, and [6] Transmission Log or [B] View Files Received From Medicare to view your reports.

For your 3rd Party claims it is important to check the Daily and Monthly files received from Proxymed. The Daily file includes patient level detail with tracking numbers. This should be received within 48 hours of a transmission, and may include multiple transmissions if they were sent within this 48 hour period. The Monthly file contains claim level detail as to which files are being denied and should be received within seven days as Insurance companies process your claims. To access this information press [6] Insurance Billing/EDI from the home screen, [3] Third Party Electronic Billing, and [8] Examine Received Reports to view your reports.

If you do not receive your reports from Medicare or Proxymed in a timely manner for your transmission, it is important you follow up with them. If you have any questions regarding the electronic claims submission process, please call Avanta.
